A daily guide to cruise activities

Sunrise 6:39am • Sunset 7:32pm • Tonight's dress: Smart Casual

Glacier Bay

Visitors have been coming to Alaska since the 1880's to see Glacier Bay. The writings of naturalist John Muir painted vivid pictures of a place where the history of the ice ages would be revealed before their eyes. Here, massive glaciers stretch from the ice-draped St. Elias and Fairweather mountain ranges to sit at the end of majestic fjords. Tidewater glaciers are rare in the world. With a perfect recipe of ocean, mountain height and precipitation, we are graced with a dozen of them in Glacier Bay.

The Bay is Alive!

When Captain George Vancouver sailed through the ice-choked waters of Icy Strait in 1794, Glacier Bay was little more than a dent in a mountain of ice. Less than a century later, John Muir made his legendary discovery of Glacier Bay and found that the end of the bay had retreated 40 miles from Icy Strait. Today, the glacier that bears his name is some 60 miles from Icy Strait. The resultant recolonization of plants and animals has fascinated naturalists since 1916. Apart from having the world's highest concentration of tidewater glaciers, Glacier Bay is the habitat for a wide variety of marine life. Whales, harbor seals, porpoises, sea otters, brown and black bears, wolves, moose, mountain goats and over 200 species of birds make their home in Glacier Bay. The National Park Rangers will be pointing out these local inhabitants as they are sighted.

Captain's Circle Hospitality Desk

Atrium, Deck 5

Office Hours: 10am - Noon and 4pm - 6pm
If you reside outside of the U.S., Canada or the United Kingdom and have sailed with Princess before, but you are holding a blue cruise key card, please check in with Wanda at the Princess Captain Circle hospitality desk located on deck 5 in the Atrium. Members, pick up your cruise pin today.

Passenger Viral Gastroenteritis Advisory

As many of you may have seen in the media, a significant increase in the number of viral gastroenteritis [Norwalk Virus or NLV] outbreaks has been experienced on cruise ships in the Northern Hemisphere and the greater continental USA, particularly on the eastern seaboard. As requested to cruise lines by the C.D.C recently, we wish to reinforce the essential importance of hand washing procedures [20 seconds minimum with soap under warm running water], and reporting to the Medical Centre immediately [by calling 911] at the FIRST sign of any symptoms [i.e.: fever/body aches/diarrhea/vomiting/headaches/chills/abdominal cramps/"heartburn"]. As is policy with Princess, there is no charge for any treatment aboard when a diagnosis of gastroenteritis is reached. Please be assured that the C.D.C and U.S.P.H. recommended precautionary and sanitation procedures are being closely followed aboard this vessel. For further details, please refer to the letter given to you by your stateroom steward on embarkation day.

Ranger Station

To enhance your glacier bay experience, the National Park Service Rangers will have glacier bay educational materials for sale in the Skywalker's Nightclub, Deck 18 Aft throughout the day.

FROM THE NAVIGATOR

During the night Diamond Princess will continue on her course through the Gulf of Alaska towards Cape Spencer where we will embark our two Southeast Alaska Pilots. Late in the morning we expect to embark Glacier Bay National Park Rangers at Bartlett Cove as we enter Glacier Bay. Once Rangers onboard various northerly courses will be set towards Margerie Glacier and Lamplugh Glacier. Diamond Princess will disembark the Rangers and depart from Glacier Bay at around 8:30pm, and once clear from the Glacier Bay National Park a set of easterly courses will be set through Icy Strait. At approximately midnight we will enter Lynn Canal and a set of northerly headings will be steered towards Skagway.

Today ships are equipped with a large quantity of electronic devices which help the navigator to reach his destination. Even if we have all these modern instruments, a sextant is still carried on board. The sextant is the navigational instrument for the measurement of vertical and horizontal angles at sea. It is an instrument of double reflection by means of two mirrors, and thus although its actual arc subtends an angle of 60° at the centre, it is capable of measuring angles up to 120°. The sextant was developed in 1757 from the quadrant, which could measure angles only up to 90°, following a suggestion of Captain John Campbell of the British Navy. The requirements for the additional 30° arose from the need of making lunar observation in order to discover a ship's longitude. The other main part of the calculation is exact time. UTC or Universal Time, sometimes known as GMT (Greenwich Mean Time) is a standard time that is set from London. All other times in the world are adjusted from this time depending upon how far east or west you go. At the moment the ship's time is UTC - 8 hours. Later on in the week we will travel into UTC - 7 and the ship's time will go forward one hour.

MEDICAL CENTRE

The Medical Center is situated on Deck 4. Access via the central Atrium elevator and stairs.

Office Hours Today:
10:00am-12Noon & 4:30pm-6:30pm
For urgent medical attention please dial 911.
