

PRINCESS PATTERN

A daily guide to cruise activities

JUNEAU • WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 13, 2006 • DIAMOND PRINCESS
Sunrise 6:26am • Sunset 7:20pm • Tonight's dress: Smart Casual

Welcome to Juneau

In 1880, for Joe Juneau and Richard Harris, the going was slow and frustrating as they searched for gold with the help of Indian guides.

Finally, after climbing mountains, forging streams and facing countless difficulties, they found nuggets "as large as beans." Out of their discovery came three of the largest goldmines in the world. By the end of World War II, more than $150 million in gold had been mined. Eventually the mines closed, but the town Joe Juneau founded became the capital of Alaska and the business of gold was replaced by the business of government. Some 30,000 people live in Juneau and its total area makes it one of the biggest towns, in size, in the world. Only Kiruna (Sweden) and Sitka (Alaska) exceed Juneau's 3,248 square miles.

Today Juneau is not only famous for gold and government, but also for its breathtakingly beautiful glaciers and stunning views of both water and mountains.

to be the start of his lifelong enjoyment of Cigars. Open from 5:00pm; we invite you to follow in his footsteps; enjoy your favorite "Stogie" and sample from our selection of fine cognacs, scotch & ports.

Our knowledgeable staff will be on hand to help you select & "toast" the perfect cigar.

Juneau Arrival Notice

In preparation for our arrival in Juneau this morning we would please ask that you do not congregate around the gangway areas but wait in the comfort of the public lounges on Promenade Deck 7 or on the outside open decks. Please wait for the public address announcing the Ship's Clearance before proceeding to the gangway areas. Only passengers on Ship's organized tours are requested to use the midship gangway, Fiesta Deck 6, port side, which can be accessed by the midship stairwells and elevators. Passengers going ashore independently are requested to use the gangway, from Deck 7. Please ensure that you have your cruise card physically in your hand before reaching the gangway areas. From approx. 8:00am, due to tidal changes, the gangways will be moved throughout the day so please listen for announcements which gangway to use.

Alaska Cruise Companion Highlights

Today is Southbound Day Five in The Alaska Cruise Companion, a unique book/map guide, available in the Boutiques On Board: Highlights: Today's route map P.104. Juneau information - P. 146. Also of interest are John Muir's travels P. 131, and Fords Terror Journal on P. 133.

FROM THE NAVIGATOR

During the early hours of the morning, Diamond Princess will be sailing through Stephens Passage towards Juneau. After rounding Marmion Island and entering Gastineau Channel we will commence our final approach to Juneau, where we expect to be safely berthed by 5:30am. Juneau, being the State Capital of Alaska, is the centre of administration and the seat of the State Legislative Assembly. Diamond Princess will sail from Juneau at 4:00pm, and after retracing our courses out of Gastineau Channel various courses will be set through Stephens Passage, Frederick Sound and Chatham Strait towards Ketchikan passing Cape Decision late this evening. During this approach, as in all the others, one of the most important instruments we have on the navigation bridge is the Radar. Radar is the abbreviation of "Radio Detection And Range" and it's a device for detecting objects by sending out pulses of radio waves; if these strike anything they are reflected back and the time taken for these echoes to return is measured. As the speed of radio waves is known, this time can be automatically translated into the distance of the object. Direction is given by the direction in which the transmitting aerial points at the time. The range is conditioned by the height of the aerial and by the size and material of the object being detected. The idea of radio detection is almost as old as radio, but the breakthrough for ship-borne radar occurred in 1940 with the British invention of the magnetron to produce very short wavelengths. By this time warships were using radar for shadowing an enemy and providing ranges for gunnery. After the war radar sets were installed in merchant ships as aids to navigation and for the prevention of collision. Diamond Princess is fitted with five latest technology radar units.
